The Malladi Brothers, Malladi Sreeramprasad and Malladi Ravikumar, a Carnatic (or South Indian) music vocalist duo, were born with a rich legacy accrued through their grandfather Sri Malladi Sriramamurthy, and their father Sri Suri Babu, a disciple of Sri Voleti Venkateswarulu. Subsequently they studied under Sripada Pinakapani, Nedunuri Krishnamurthy and Sangitha Kalanidhi. A large repertoire of Carnatic compositions and the possession of vibrant and powerful voices have made them among the most sought-after young maestros of Carnatic music. They have maintained a classic and symbolic expression of Carnatic music. They have received many prestigious awards such as: the National Youth Music Title of Sangeetha Yuva Puraskar by the Sangeet Natak Academy; Isai Peroli by Karthik Fine Arts, Chennai; Aasthana Vidwan of the Avadhoota Datta Peentham, Mysore, being the youngest artists to receive the award so far; and Naadha Bhushanam from Sanmugananda Fine Arts, New Delhi. They have traveled extensively all over India and abroad, and made several concert tours of Europe, North America and Australia.
