I have just finally decided on a place of employment (Howrey LLP) and international firm based out of DC. I will start at their Chicago office next fall.

Law school has been a great experience for me, and an excellent addition to my ME degree. I have had the opportunity to study abroad in Hong Kong, work a several employers over the past three summers, and to earn an extra degree; something that I think is critical to advancing.

I plan to spend the rest of this year finishing out my degree and possibly returning to Hong Kong for a second semester. After that I will move to Chicago to study for and take the regular Illinois Bar Exam and the Federal Patent Law Bar Exam. After about 2years at the Howrey Chicago office, I will likely have the opportunity to work in one of their international offices for a while. I think that International experience will be a big part of my practice and future, and I want to be sure that I have experience as soon as possible.
