RECENT LITIGATION:

United States Supreme Court:

Counsel for International Humanitarian Law Experts as Amici Curiae Louise Doswald-Beck et al. in Hamdan v. Rumsfeld, 2006 U.S. LEXIS 5185 (June 29, 2006) (military commission lacked power to try alleged unlawful enemy combatant at U.S. Naval Base in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, because it failed to comply with Uniform Code of Military Justice and Common Article 3 of the 1949 Geneva Conventions), and in lower courts: 344 F.Supp.2d 152 (D.D.C. 2004), reversed, 415 F.3d 33 (D.C.Cir. 2005), reversed and remanded by the Supreme Court.

Consultant to counsel for prisoners in Rasul v. United States, 542 U.S. 466 (2004), (U.S. courts have jurisdiction to hear habeas corpus petitions by foreign nationals imprisoned as “unlawful enemy combatants” without charges, counsel or judicial review at U.S. Naval Base in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba), and before Court of Appeals, 321 F.3d 1134 (D.C.Cir. 2003).

Consultant to counsel for Yaser Hamdi in Hamdi v. Rumsfeld, 542 U.S. 507 (2004) (U. S. citizen could not be imprisoned as alleged “unlawful enemy combatant” without notice of the factual basis of this classification and a fair opportunity to rebut the government’s factual assertions before a neutral decisionmaker).

Counsel for Amici Curiae Legal and Religious Organizations in Rumsfeld v. Padilla, 542 U.S. 426 (2004) (Because the particular district court in which the case was filed lacked jurisdiction, the Supreme Court did not reach the issue of whether a U.S. citizen arrested and detained in U.S., and alleged to be “unlawful enemy combatant,” was entitled to be tried or released).

Counsel for 28 Career Foreign Service Diplomats in Sosa v. Alvarez-Machain, 542 U.S. 692 (2004) (Alien Torts Statute allows suits for violations of clear norms of international law, but not for brief detentions) (brief amicus curiae of former diplomats argued that human rights litigation in federal courts under Alien Tort Statute is consistent with United States foreign policy).

Lower Courts:

Counsel for Consul General of Poland in People v. Madej, 193 Ill.2d 395 (2000) (on legal effect in Illinois courts of violation of rights to consular notification under international treaty), cert. denied, 533 U.S. 911 (2001); petition for habeas corpus granted and death penalty set aside, U.S. ex rel. Madej v. Schomig, 223 F. Supp.2d 968 (N.D.Ill. 2002).

International and Foreign Courts and Commissions:

Testimony as expert before Constitutional Court of Indonesia on compliance of Indonesia's Truth and Reconciliation Commission Law with international human rights law, Jakarta, Indonesia, July 2006.

Counsel for Gomez Paquiyauri family in Gomez Paquiyauri v. Peru, before Inter-American Court of Human Rights, 2006 - .

Counsel for certain prisoners in Case of Hugo Juarez Cruzatt et al. v. Peru, before Inter-American Court of Human Rights, 2005 - .

Counsel for Center for International Human Rights, Northwestern University School of Law, in Proceedings before the Inter-American Court of Human Rights, Advisory Opinion OC-18, Rights of Undocumented Immigrant Workers (2003).

Adviser, Case of Santo Domingo, Colombia, Caso No. 12.416, Report no. 25/03, March 6, 2003 (ruling case admissible), Inter.-American Commission on Human Rights.

Counsel for petitioner in Figueredo v. Venezuela, Case no. 11.298, Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Report No. 50/00 (2000) (finding violations of due process and rights of defense in political prosecution of former Foreign Minister of Venezuela).

Counsel for amici curiae MacArthur Justice Center and International Human Rights Law Institute before Inter-American Court of Human Rights on Advisory Opinion OC-16, The Right to Information about Consular Assistance within the Framework of Guarantees of Due Process of Law (1999).

Counsel for petitioner in Gómez López v. Guatemala, Case No. 11.303, Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Report No.29/96 (1996) (finding violations of right to physical integrity in attempted assassination of Guatemalan labor leader).
