

Mathematics Teaching Seminar: “Experiences in Teaching”

Speakers: Tom Edgar, Stacy Hoehn, Jon Hauenstein and Chrissy Maher

Date: Tuesday, February 19, 2008

Time: 4:45 pm

Room: 231 Hayes - Healy Hall

Abstract: Teaching is in many ways a very personal undertaking. The instructor brings talent and ability as do the particular collection of students in the classroom. This necessarily produces a range of teaching styles and methods. This will be illustrated as several graduate instructors share their experiences teaching a variety of courses. The discussion will focus on specific techniques, examples and methods of instruction. The speakers will answer some or all of the following questions: what was implemented? why was it implemented? did it "work?" what could have been improved? how did the students react?
