

Speaker: Arthur Lim
University of Notre Dame

Tuesday, April 8, 2008
4:45 pm
231 Hayes-Healy Hall

Title: Constructing Short Quizzes

Abstract:

Writing quizzes and tests is one of the most important aspect of teaching. Students' responds to quizzes and tests gives us feedback to our teaching, deep insights about student's learning, and highlights common misconceptions of material covered in class. Quizzes in particular help us to mete out to our students what is required in their learning. In this talk, we will discuss construction of quizzes and their role in teaching, and how quizzes could help us obtain information useful in teaching.