Congratulations on your recent acceptance for participation in a University study abroad program. In order to allow the University to provide appropriate assistance to you during your study abroad experience, it is important that we be aware of any medical or emotional conditions, past or current, that might influence your ability to live, study or travel abroad for an extended period of time. Disclosure of the requested information is intended to ensure that your needs are being attended to and to create a positive and healthy experience. If you require ongoing medical care, treatment, or medications, you must have your treating health care provider submit a written treatment plan to be carried out while abroad as part of Section B.

A NOTE TO THE HEALTH CARE PROVIDER: Please attach a blank copy of your office letterhead or a business card and return the "Health Questionnaire" to the student as soon as possible.

The above-named student has been selected to participate in a study abroad program. Depending upon the program, students spend a summer or a full year studying, living and traveling abroad. Living and studying in a foreign environment often creates unexpected emotional and physical stress which can exacerbate otherwise mild conditions. It is important that all participants be able to adjust to dramatic changes in their living environment, climate, diet, living conditions and studying conditions that may disrupt accustomed patterns of behavior. Your complete and candid evaluation of the student's health is, therefore, extremely important to the Law School administration and Office of International Studies in anticipating and working with the student to appropriately address any problems that might arise during the student's study abroad program.
